

Flood Response

Policlínico Peruano Americano, San Clemente, Perú

Date: February 8, 2016

Prepared by: Magali M. de Pujalt and Alice Rodriguez

During the week of January 23rd, widespread torrential rainfall created flooding across many South American countries, including Perú. The rainfall caused the local rivers of Perú to overflow, and also caused mudslides. Our RMF Perú team quickly analyzed the effects of the flooding within the city center of Pisco, where RMF's clinic, Policlínico Peruano Americano is located.

The city of Pisco, Peru had extensive flooding in streets and buildings.

RMF's team receiving large donations of paper products

Donations being dropped off at the RMF Perú Clinic

Many families in the community were greatly affected by the flooding. RMF's team began accepting donations of food, water, and clothing at our clinic, and has been distributing these to families in need. RMF Perú has also received donations of furniture and bedding for families whose houses were flooded.

Large supplies of clean water and rice for distribution to affected families

Donated furniture to be distributed to those in need

Mattresses and bedding donated to help flood victims

Additional news regarding the flooding, can be seen here: <http://www.aljazeera.com/news/2017/01/floods-lash-bolivia-peru-170126091756410.html>.